

Torex Retail® Announces SalePoint as Inaugural Reseller for their Retail-J™ solution

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Cumberland, Rhode Island – January 9, 2007 - Torex Retail, a global retail solutions provider, today announced a reseller agreement with SalePoint, Inc., a software company providing software solutions to the specialty retail market.

SalePoint becomes Torex Retail's first United States based reseller of its Retail-J™ software. Retail-J is a feature rich Retail Java® application that provides an integrated Point of Service for sales, orders, cash management, time and attendance, inventory and reporting. The rich feature set and configurability of the product make it extremely appealing to resellers.

Torex Retail plans to launch the Retail-J solution at the upcoming National Retail Federation's 96th Annual Convention and Expo, which will be held at the Jacob Javits Convention Center in New York City from January 14-17th. The Torex Retail booth is #2605. Retail-J will also be shown in the SalePoint booth #1831.

Paul Streicher, President of SalePoint, stated, "The addition of Torex Retail's Retail-J point of sale software expands our solution offering for those retailers who desire a Java based store system. We are now able to leverage our store systems and existing Java expertise with a new set of solutions from a leading Global Retail Solution Provider, Torex Retail. We are excited about the opportunity to introduce Retail-J to the North America market."

Michael Hess, CEO, Torex Retail Americas, stated, " We are extremely excited about the launch of our Retail-J application in the Americas. And, we couldn't be more pleased to have one of the leading resellers in the specialty marketplace, SalePoint, eager to launch the solution with us. SalePoint brings a lot of Java expertise to the table and will be a key partner for us moving forward."
